

21st November 2020

This week I had an important appointment with the farrier and I apparently behaved very well...as if I wouldn't!

The farrier visits me every ten weeks in order to trim and beautifully shape my hooves! They grow continuously and require attention in order to keep them at a healthy length, much like humans trim your nails, just with a much larger nail file!!

I do hope when I am older I'll need to wear real horse shoes, that way I can have new shoes every four to six weeks! I wonder if they come in pink?!

*Signing off for now,
speak soon,
Tinkerbelle X*

